

CANDIDATE BERNARD SARISOHN, who is the attorney for the Long Island Service Station Dealers Association is running for State Assemblyman post on a platform strongly opposing the sales tax.

A Strong Voice Needed

Bernard Sarisohn is a dynamic, young Communist attorney who has worked actively in a wide variety of community affairs ranging from civic groups to PTA activities to youth programs. Mr. Sarisohn has shown that he knows what can be done for a community, what should be done and how to get it done.

Incumbent Assemblyman Prescott Huntington has served in the State Legislature without distinction for eight years. His voice has rarely if ever been heard and he has appeared content to occupy the seat in Albany without making any positive contributions to good government. Mr. Huntington has been satisfied with voting the party line and just rolling along with the Republican tide.

That tide carried him into voting for the state sales tax, withholding strong support of school aid bills until it became fashionable, and voting against a strong code of ethics for state legislators.

"Experience" is usually considered an asset to a candidate seeking office. But, the taxpayers' experience with Mr. Huntington mitigates against his re-election.

This is an age in which we constantly face new challenges, new problems and need to find new solutions to old problems. Mr. Huntington has shown that he is not up to the job. His has been a weak voice in Albany and it is for that reason that he is after eight years in Albany still without influence in the Assembly or in his own party.

If the people of this assembly district are to have a voice in Albany, rather than just someone holding a title to an office, it is apparent that a change must be made.

Mr. Sarisohn is talented, creative, intelligent and willing. We believe the people of this district would be wise to put his abilities to work in Albany. We strongly urge the election of Bernard Sarisohn to the State Assembly.

THE NEWSPAPERS SPEAK ABOUT SARISOHN. . . .

"A profile of the voters of the 4th Assembly District would show a homeowner concerned about his taxes; his children's education, his area's economic future and the general breakdown of morality in politics. . . . BUD SARISOHN seems uniquely qualified to represent the 4th Assembly District. . . . because he is a composite of his district's typical voter. . . . he has based his hard hitting campaign on the very issues which concern people.

- BUD SARISOHN . . . 33-year-old Smithtown lawyer, member of NY State and Suffolk County Bar Associations, homeowner, father of 3.
- BUD SARISOHN . . . dedicated worker for youngsters; PTA leader, founding president of the Comack Scholarship Fund, former scoutmaster, former president of the Comack Social and Athletic Club.
- BUD SARISOHN . . . active community leader; former officer of Comack Taxpayer's Association, 5-year trustee of the Comack Jewish Center.
- BUD SARISOHN . . . Korean combat veteran; ready and able to do the job of representing each and every Suffolk homeowner against the Albany power-blocs and the horse-and-buggy thinkers.

for the NEW LOOK in Suffolk leadership